

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method for extracting additional information from an image, the method comprises the steps of obtaining a wire mesh and a texture model; providing instructions for directing the wire mesh which in combination with the wire mesh and texture model forms an animated object; and directing the animated object to deliver audibilized information further defining information contained within the image or content.